A Human Geographer's Ethiopian Journey

Ohsoon Yun

This seminar focuses on a human geographer's Ethiopian journey via three continents - Asia, Europe, and Africa - while conducting research on coffee tourism development. This lecture introduces coffee culture and coffee tourism in the context of Ethiopia. The lecturer will also highlight her experiences in different higher education institutions, with special attention given to studying Human Geography in the UK. Finally, the lecturer will briefly discuss her current research on Asian Initiatives in Africa.

Ohsoon Yun received her PhD from the Department of Geography in the University of Exeter (Exeter, UK) by writing a thesis entitled "Coffee Tourism in Ethiopia: Opportunities, Challenges, and Initiatives". She completed her Masters studies on the same topic in Hitotsubashi University (Tokyo, Japan). She served as Director of the Social Enterprise Activation (S.E.A.) Center (Kathmandu, Nepal), which supports the socially vulnerable and social entrepreneurs in Nepal before joining SNU Asia Center. Prior experiences also include working for the culture and arts sectors in fields such as tourism, festival organization, and performing arts in different countries.
