“With consilient research beyond the walls of disciplines, SNUAC will grow into a global hub of Asian studies that presents measures for problems of our time.”

The year 2020 will be remembered as a year that we desperately witnessed the rapid changes in the world around us. The COVID-19 pandemic which continues to this day is acting as a great variable in the changes in global economic order and integration of the market, homogenization of sociocultural phenomena due to information technology, and the stance and status of Korea in its response. Such rapid changes of the world are posing challenges and opportunities for research institutes at higher educational institutions that have found their raison d'être in interpreting social changes and presenting appropriate measures to evaluate their own capacities. Especially as we witnessed all countries responding differently according to their regional, historical and sociocultural specificities, we once again became keenly aware of the necessity for a systematic understanding and comparison of the Asian region.

It was in the mid-2000s when new opportunities and issues started to emerge along with Asia's rise as a new power in world politics, economy and culture, that the establishment of Asia Center began to be pursued. In the background of globalization and the advent of the Asian era and with the dedication of members of the SNU community as well as enthusiastic support from the government, Seoul National University Asia Center finally set sail in 2009. Afterward, SNUAC built an independent building which is unusual for a research institute within a university, secured the research budget for expanding the base of Asian studies, and procured 15 HK professors and research professors as the institute was selected as the HK+ research institute for overseas regions (‘Mega-Asia and Asias: Identities, Dynamics, Data-Telling’) by the Ministry of Education in 2020. With independent space and funds for research as well as full-time researchers, SNUAC has prepared the foundation for realizing its vision of “reforming itself as a research institute combining regional and thematic research and as the world's top 3 hubs of Asian studies”.

Within SNUAC, six regional centers and eight thematic centers are being operated. As a measure to effectively integrate regions and themes, we are emphasizing the collection and management of regional information, which is taken up by Korea Social Science Data Archive (KOSSDA) and Asia Regional Information Center (ARIC). SNUAC seeks to suggest measures for socioeconomic issues faced by this era, based on systematic basic research and data collection on the Asian region. Also, withholding the belief that “new knowledge is only created from sharing and cooperating beyond the walls of disciplines”, SNUAC is striving to dismantle the various walls that exist between disciplines, colleges and academic organizations, and in universities and society.

SNUAC takes it upon itself to become a hub for regional research where all knowledges can converge around Asian regional studies. The process will be slow and at times lacking. We ask for your constant participation in the process, looking over our journey and joining us with warm encouragement and advice.

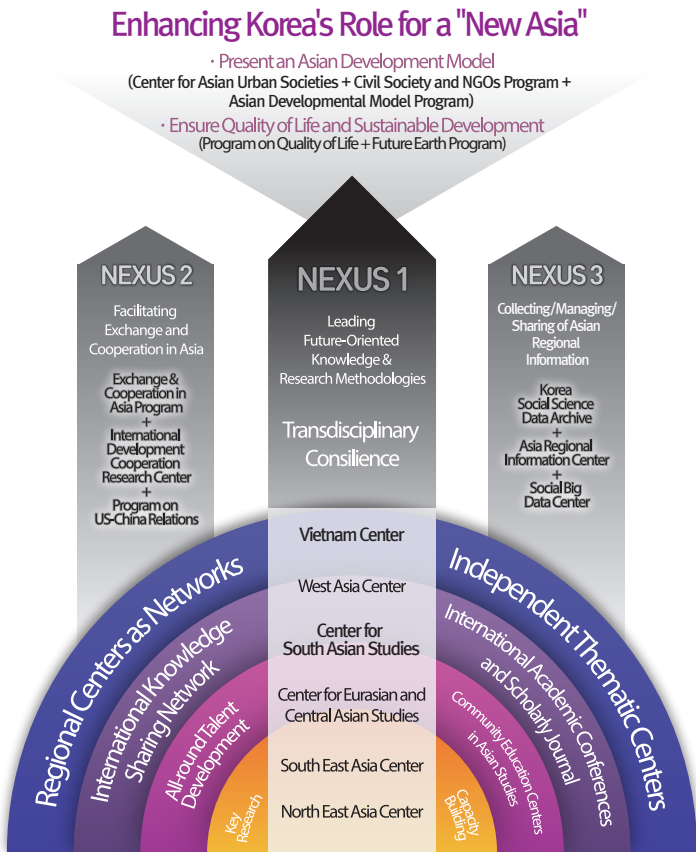

Thank you.

Director of SNUAC Park, So Jin

The Global Hub for Research in Asian Studies by Integrating Regional and Thematic Research

SNUAC has announced a new vision for the upcoming decade in commemoration of its tenth anniversary. Under the vision of a “global hub for research in Asian studies by integrating regional and thematic research”, SNUAC seeks to present an Asian development model and a paradigm for the enhancement and sustainable development of the quality of Asian life, to improve Korea’s role for a “New Asia”.

For this aim, the six regional centers of SNUAC are integrated in Nexus 1 to lead future-oriented creation of knowledge and research methodologies through consilience and exchanges of disciplines. In Nexus 2, SNUAC systematically researches the mobility and exchange of people, goods, and thoughts in Asia for the exchange and interaction of the region in the rapidly changing domestic and foreign environments. In Nexus 3, SNUAC strives to create and share new values by collecting and processing various data from Asian countries and regions.

Organization Chart

* Official units

SNUAC is a comprehensive research institute based on an approach integrating regional and thematic research. SNUAC comprises of HK+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group, six regional research centers, and eight thematic research programs, along with KOSSDA and Asia Regional Information Center which collect and manage regional information and data. Under the director and deputy director, three departments (Academic Research Department, International Exchange Department, Human Resources Development Department) as well as the Strategy and Planning Office and Administration Office support the research activities of each unit and carry out projects of the institute.

SNUAC has been selected as the project group for the overseas section of 2020 HK+ support project. The HK+ Project Group at SNUAC was launched on May 1, 2020, with the agenda of 'Mega-Asia and Asias: Identities, Dynamics, Data-Telling' and seeks to establish new perspective and awareness of Asia through the concept of 'Mega-Asia'. The vision of this project is constructing a new paradigm of Asian regional studies through applications of comparative regional studies and consilient research. The project will help SNUAC make a leap as one of the world's top three hubs in Asian studies by fostering Asian regional experts during the seven years of conducting this project.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Publication of 'Mega-Asia' series - A total of 9 books in phase 1 (3 years)
- * Construction of a knowledge-sharing platform for networking with local research institutes in Asia
- * Operation of a fostering program for Mega-Asia regional researchers and experts
- * Operation of a community humanities center

Northeast Asia Center

#ColdWarandPeaceinEastAsia #Trans-BordersandFrontiers #AsiaTourism #AsiaizationofAsia #Geeconomics

The Northeast Asia Center (NEAC) has accumulated academic capacities around themes related to the Northeast Asian region such as the Cold War and post-Cold War, borders and minorities, cultural heritage and geographical imagination, and division and the North Korean problem, and has constructed research networks at home and abroad.

As a central unit of consilient research combining the region and themes in Northeast Asia including North and South Korea, China, Japan, Taiwan and Hong Kong, NEAC has played a leading role in studying East Asian trans-borders and frontiers, Asia tourism, and conflicts and peace in the Korean peninsula and East Asia. Further, NEAC contributes to strengthening common research capacities through academic consilience by serving as a hub of communication and cooperation among Asia-related research institutes in SNU.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Conflicts and peace in North and South Korea and East Asia: Studying the changes in world order and seeking solidarity and cooperation in Northeast Asia
- * Trans-borders and frontiers of East Asia: Studying the solution of Cold War order and seeking a new East Asian order
- * Asia Tourism: Investigating sociocultural meaning of tourism and the composition of East Asian tourism through travelling and exchanges
- * Asiaization of Asia: Seeking systematic Asian studies in the process of regional exchanges and integration with Asia as the unit of analysis
- * Changes in the geoeconomic dynamics of Asia: Participating as a member of the Council of Asia Regional Research Institutes at Seoul National University (CARISNU) and supporting the council's activities

The Southeast Asia Center (SEAC) was established in 2012 as an answer to the socioeconomic and cultural interest toward Southeast Asia. SEAC has since become the core of Korea's Southeast Asian area studies by providing expert insight and disseminating meaningful data. SEAC's researchers have conducted multiple comprehensive studies on the Southeast Asian region, established strong networks with other Southeast Asian regional research institutes both domestic and abroad, and provided Open Lectures to continuously promote Southeast Asian studies to the public.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Studies on Islamic finance: Conducted <Is Islamic Finance an Alternative to Conventional Finance? Principles and Practices of Islamic Finance in Southeast Asia>, selected as a 2018 General Joint Research Project by National Research Foundation
- * Research on rising regions: Focused on the dynamic changes and potentials for growth of rising ASEAN countries after launching of the ASEAN community
- * Southeast Asian regional knowledge proliferation project: Hosted invitational expert lectures and provided Open Lectures on Southeast Asia
- * Academic activities: Published issue papers and policy reports for enhancing understanding of the region

Center for Eurasian and Central Asian Studies

#CentralAsia #BorderStudy #MigrationandFlow #RegionalFormationandIntegration #Diaspora

The Center for Eurasian and Central Asian Studies (CECAS) was founded to do research on political, economic, social, historical, and cultural phenomena in Central Asia and Eurasia. CECAS has sought to provide information on current issues in Central Eurasian region and foster experts in the region by actively presenting research outcomes in diverse academic disciplines. CECAS also aims to promote public interests in Central Asia by hosting academic conferences/seminars and cultural events where researchers, specialists, and employees get to interact with each other. Finally, it has forged research network for ongoing cooperation with domestic and foreign universities and research institutions.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Border studies: Research on increased connectivity and changes in Central Asia following the opening of borders and the growth of movements and flows between nations
- * Migration studies: Research on the movement and flow of people, commodities, capital, and culture among Central Asian countries and with other regions
- * Islam studies: Research on the impacts of Islam that serves both as a religion and cultural norms on the lifestyle of the people in Central Asia
- * Diaspora studies: Research how the life of Koryo-saram and Jews have changed through oral history and collection of archives

Center for South Asian Studies

#FabLabinIndia #IndianHistory #IndianClassics #SouthAsianEconomy #LivingLab

The Center for South Asian Studies (CSAS) was established to pursue multidimensional cooperative projects with the eight countries in the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) and to study their history, economy, politics, languages and cultures with the aim of systematically building related capacities.

After establishing diplomatic relations with South Asian countries in the 1970s, Korea has recently reinforced cooperation in the context of New Southern Policy. With this trend, CSAS has the task of accumulating reliable high-quality information on the South Asian region to secure as its assets and fostering regional experts. CSAS seeks to perform the role of an academic link that connects diverse agents who contribute to the creation and accumulation of information related to South Asia.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Korea-India joint research on fab labs: Joint research conducted in Korea and India using fab labs that seek solutions in the field by reflecting citizen needs and participation
- * Korea-India joint fab lab development: Research on solution networks that provide safety and convenience for late-night traveling of mobility handicapped through living lab research oriented towards green mobility
- * South Asia Culture School: Public knowledge-sharing project providing professional understanding of South Asian culture and history in an open frame

The West Asia Center (WAC) was established to provide a timely view through deep, suggestive analysis of West Asia, strengthen the foundation for research of West Asia through continuous research, and build networks between researchers, businessmen and government officials of West Asia. WAC has formed relationships with experts for future research expansion through colloquiums and added depth to regional understanding through regional intensive seminars. The goal of WAC for this year's project is to analyze the political status in West Asia after the Arab Spring and Iran Green Movement, which will be the confrontation between Saudi Arabian alliance and Iranian alliance.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Specialized Colloquium: Discussing issues in West Asia which have not been studied thoroughly, such as civil society in Iraq and the Christians in Egypt
- * Study on West Asia Geopolitics: Analyzing current political status in West Asia, especially focusing on the issues of Iran-US conflict, Shia crescent belt, confrontation between Saudi alliance and Iranian alliance
- * Intensive Seminar on the 10th Anniversary of Arab Spring: Following history of the civil society movement in West Asia after 2010 and searching for further prospects, with the 10th anniversary of the Arab Spring
- * Support for Study of Young Scholars: Promoting academic exchanges and active research of young scholars studying West Asia by supporting seminars of scholars
- * Support for Undergraduate Students Circle: Training follow-up generations of West Asian studies by supporting studies and activities of university student

Center for Asian Urban Societies

#UrbanTransitionLab #InclusiveCities #CitiesofPeace #TransitionCities #ResilientCities

By presenting a post-developmental urban paradigm, the Center for Asian Urban Societies (CAUS) aims to help Asian cities overcome the limitations of developmental urbanization and establish a human-centered urban community. It also wants to explore and share alternative urban discourses and practices that address commoning, peace, and sustainability to solve the Asian urban problem. The Center strives not only to achieve timely theoretical research through urban field-centered research but also to disseminate its research results to society through active policy proposals. Further, it establishes research-based urban solidarity through domestic and overseas research and activity networks.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Urban Transition Lab: Pioneering experiments for sharing cities and urban transition and launching local government-citizen collaborative programs to implement a co-production system
- * Inclusive, Commoning Cities: Developing an index for urban inclusivity and Cooperating with other East Asian cities through the East Asian Inclusive City Network (EA-ICN)
- * Post-Cold War Cities of Peace: Researching on geopolitics and geoeconomics of post-Cold War East Asia, border cities and military base cities
- * Sustainable Cities for Transition: Researching on East Asian developmentalism and “state-nature” relations, energy transition in the Korean peninsula
- * De-growth, Resilient Cities: Researching on East Asian industrial cities, the future of cities and manufacturing industries, transition to smart cities

International Development Cooperation Research Center

#IDC #ODA #SDGs #TVET #ASEAN

The International Development Cooperation Research Center (IDCRC) was established to explore and develop research topics related to international development cooperation and ODA based on SNUAC's expertise in the region. IDCRC seeks to open a new horizon of development cooperation research by disseminating research outcomes through a network of renowned institutes at home and abroad. Currently IDCRC contributes to research and the ODA project after the affiliation of Korea Association of International Development and Cooperation (KAIDEC) with SNUAC and especially serves to nurture next-generation academics through the ODA Young Professional (YP) project sponsored by the Korea International Cooperation Agency (KOICA).

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Research on SGDs and strategies for implementation in the Korean peninsula
- * Social economy research for international development cooperation: Researching social economy model as an alternative for sustainable growth in developing countries
- * Comparative study of the development cooperation strategies in South Korea, China and Japan: Comparing the development cooperation status and strategies of major Asian donor countries and proposing South Korea's direction of ODA in Asia
- * Research on development cooperation VET: Examining overseas TVET provision projects based on labor markets and formulating a future-oriented project fit for the Korean situation
- * Database construction: Collecting and categorizing data related to developmental cooperation and building a database

Future Earth Program (FEP) was established to embody in Korea and SNU the international research network Future Earth (circa 2012) that aims to respond to various challenges faced by humanity and present a sustainable vision of future. From 2019, SNUAC hosts the office of Future Earth's Korean committee. By strengthening a convergence and research cooperation between social and natural sciences, FEP provides research and educational platform to develop theories and models for enhancing the sustainability of the Korean peninsula and Asia as well as to expand the network among interested parties.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Visioneering of sustainability: Engineering with a vision of a healthy ecological-societal systems (HESS) for the Korean peninsula and Asia and constructing a regional hub in the Asia Pacific
- * Developing theories and models of sustainability: Presenting theories and models of sustainable governance, maintenance and monitoring of the cycle of material, energy and information based on complex systems science
- * Forming an international network and research cooperation: Building networks and partnerships among interested parties
- * Consilient research: Held a series of round-table talks, "Quo Vadis, Humanity"
- * Civil society cooperation project: Exchanging and cooperating with local civil society for enhanced sustainability on a regional basis

Program on Quality of Life

#InequalityinAsia #Children'sQualityofLife #PovertyinAsia #GenderDiscriminationinAsia #EastAsianComparativeStudies

While economic growth is achieved and poverty issues are solved with accelerated industrialization, Asian countries now face aggravated inequality. Meanwhile, Asian countries including Korea show comparatively low quality of life and level of happiness. The Program on Quality of Life constructs a research hub to conduct research on the Asian inequality and quality of Asian life to pursue joint research among Asian scholars of related subjects and to procure a place of communication to activate exchanges. Ultimately, the program seeks to resolve the issues of inequality and deterioration of quality of life in Asian countries by searching for institutional measures in social welfare policy.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Comparative research on poverty/inequality in East Asia: Promoting a book project that examines the situation and causes of poverty and inequality with four East Asian countries such as Korea, China, Japan and Taiwan as major subjects and conducts a comparative analysis of difference from Western countries
- * Joint research on Asian inequality: Pursuing the collaborative research that follows Oxfam's project, "Getting Even: Public policies to tackle inequality in Asia" (Bloomsbury Publishing)
- * Research on the motherhood penalty in East Asia: Using Luxembourg Income Study (LIS) Wave IX to compare the motherhood penalty in East Asian countries such as Taiwan and Korea to those of Western welfare states (Germany, U.S., Finland)
- * Research on Asian children's quality of life: Using the 2nd wave data from Children's World to conduct a comparative research on the risks that threaten the quality of life for children in 16 countries
- * Research on children's quality of life and time use: Studying the correlation between time-use types of children and their quality of life, with specific analysis of differences in gender and time-use types

Civil Society and NGOs Program

#CivilSociety #SocialEconomy #NonProfit #Community #Governance

The Civil Society and NGOs Program (CSP) aims to provide in-depth comparisons and analyses of changes in civil societies of major countries in East Asia including Korea as its area of focus. Major research areas are environment, human rights and social economy, with key topics being 'regional development and governance', 'migration and multi-culture', and 'community and alliance', respectively. The program carried out research in various topics in order to examine how Asian civil societies are adapting to and changing according to the process of globalization. To check on the changes of Korean civil society, the program built a nationwide NGO database for the first time in Korea as a topographical analysis of civil society.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Research on the topography of Korean civil society: Conducted a survey on organizations registered on the conspectus of NGOs and non-profit NGOs for fundamental statistics based on their aims and primary activities. Planning for publication
- * Construction of fundamental database for civil society organizations: Analyzed NGOs in Asia that have acquired a 'consultative status' from UN ECOSOC. Produced reports of basic information and statistical data
- * Comparative research on corporate social responsibility: Conducted "Corporate Social Responsibility in Regional Community: Korea and Japan" for two years and incited collaborative research participation of scholars from both countries
- * Establishment of network for East Asian civil society research: Expanded the scope of the annual joint international conference of Korea-Japan Political Thought Association to East Asia. Planning to hold various academic conferences

Asian Developmental Model Program

#COVID19Crisis #VarietiesofMarketEconomies #GlobalizationandAsianDevelopmentalModel #GlobalValueChain #DemocracyandEconomicDevelopmentinAsia

Asian Developmental Model Program aims to analyze the specificity and diversity of the Asian capitalist system theoretically and empirically and to classify sustainable Asian developmental models based on the analysis. To do so, the program discusses the common institution and culture of Asian capitalism and classifies the diversity of Asian capitalism by comparatively analyzing various industries in terms of corporate governance, intercorporate relations, labor, finances, welfare and global value chains. The program seeks to suggest a sustainable Asian developmental model by setting the regional commonality of Asian capitalism and a synthesized framework that includes the diversity of countries within the region.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Studies on the common characteristics of Asian capitalism in a globalized age: Political systems and economic growth; state-led capitalism; Confucianism
- * Theoretical studies on the diversity of Asian capitalism: Comparative study of institutionalism; relationships between state and market, state and society
- * Empirical studies on the diversity of Asian capitalism: Corporate governance; intercorporate relations; technological innovation; corporate culture; labor system; financial system; welfare system; global value chains (textile industry, automobile industry, electronic industry, semiconductors, etc)
- * Presenting an Asian capitalist developmental model: Presenting a synthesized framework by categorizing diverse types of Asian capitalism

Exchange and Cooperation in the Asian World Program

#TheAsianWorld #ExchangeNetworks #Textual&ArchaeologicalEvidence #Interdisciplinary&ConvergentResearch
#EastAsianMediterranean

The Exchange and Cooperation in the Asian World Program aims to identify the various exchange networks that existed in the 'Asian World', and to trace the intertwined histories of these networks through textual and archaeological evidence. Due to the vastness of the study area and the diversity of the research topics involved, this endeavor requires an interdisciplinary and convergent approach, the development of which will act to provide a new research framework for 'Asian Regional Studies'. The examination of exchange networks from a diachronic perspective will demonstrate how 'mobility' and 'connectivity' have contributed to the formation and reproduction of the 'Asian World', and may also provide insights on exchange and cooperation in the contemporary Asian World.

Research goals for 2020-2021 include the construction of an 'Archaeological and Historical Evidence for Exchange in the Asian World Database' – key datasets will be summarized and provided in English. Research will also be undertaken on the history of exchange in the eastern section of the 'East Asian Mediterranean', the results of which will be disseminated through research articles, an edited volume, and international workshops.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Conceptualizing the 'Asian World': Developing a theoretical perspective that allows the Asian World to be explored as a 'continuation' and 'ensemble'
- * Empirical studies on the exchange networks of the 'Asian World': Tracing the ancient elite networks of Asia by analyzing the spread of domesticated animals
- * Ancient exchange in the Eastern Section of the 'East Asian Mediterranean': Comparative research on the eastern (i.e. the East Sea Rim region) and the western (i.e. West Sea Rim region) sections of the 'East Asian Mediterranean'

Korea Social Science Data Archive (KOSSDA)

#DataArchive #MethodologyEducation #DataFair #KoreanSocialTrends #SocialWell-Being

KOSSDA is a data archive established in 2006 with the aim of laying the foundation for empirical research in social sciences in Korea. Specifically, KOSSDA collects data from research resources produced by individuals and institutes, archives the data into a systematic database and provides them to be reused in research. Since being transferred to SNU in 2015, KOSSDA has actively conducted data archiving research and advanced the platform in order to provide FAIR (Findable, Accessible, Interoperable, Reusable) data from users' perspective. Further, KOSSDA organizes educational programs, events and data-based research projects to promote data sharing and use.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Collecting and archiving social science data: Collecting and archiving quantitative/qualitative data; data curation
- * Education for data sharing and promoting data use: Methodology education programs; data fair; thesis contests; special lectures on using archives
- * Archiving-related research: Foundation of a social science database on KRM; study on the estimation of social value of KOSSDA and the application to CoreTrustSeal certification; harmonization and documentation of international survey data on social well-being in seven Asian countries
- * Data-based research: Report on Korean social trends; international survey on social well-being in seven Asian countries
- * International cooperation network: Network of Asian Social Sciences Data Archives (NASSDA); participated in a cooperative network for "social well-being survey" in seven Asian countries

Asia Regional Information Center

#AsiaRegionalInformation #CountryReport #DataService #ComparativeStudies #CulturalIntelligence

The Asia Regional Information Center (ARIC) aims to establish comprehensive database based on statistical analysis of qualitative/quantitative data of individual countries & regions in Asia, in response to the social needs of present national and regional information. Our ultimate goal is to contribute to developing cultural intelligence competence by creating an integrated information platform for sharing various information and data, attributed by ARIC's versions of country reports and data modules.

Main Projects and Research Topics

- * Development of ARIC Country Reports: Combining regional knowledge from local experts and various indices of international organizations, regularly updating to accumulate timely information
- * Establishment of Statistical Database and Analysis Procedure: Data collection of current information from Asian countries, structural design of database, data modulation using statistical programs
- * Provision of Data Service: Providing country reports, analysis on timely issues and on-demand data service through our website
- * Expansion of Cooperation within and out of SNU: Inner-SNU cooperation for Pan-SNU Country Reports, international cooperation with IOs for information platform
- * Construction of Data Hub customized for Asia Regional Research: Developing cultural intelligence competence to better understand different cultures and to promote cultural & academic exchanges

- * KOSSDA conducts methodology training for graduate students and researchers for them to improve their data analysis skills which are at the core of active reutilization of social science data.
- * Various methodology courses including statistical analysis methods, social survey methods and qualitative research methods are offered from basic to advanced levels as workshops in summer and winter and as short courses in spring and fall.
- * All courses are conducted with both theory and practice in order to ensure actual enhancement of competence in data analysis and research.
- * The program has been offered quarterly since 2015 with over 1,000 attendees yearly. From 2020, online lectures have been introduced.

1. How can I collaborate with SNUAC as a researcher involved in Asian regional studies?

Currently, the International Exchange Department is promoting mutual exchanges among researchers engaged in Asia studies through the visiting scholar program and fellowship. Further, there are various opportunities provided by SNUAC to share research achievements through article submissions to our KCI journal Asia Review and Asia Regional Review Webzine Diverse+Asia and application to ICAS Book Prize for outstanding works on Asia (Korean Edition) that SNUAC organizes. SNUAC also promotes cooperation with not only individual researchers but also Asia-related research institutes through the Council of Asia Research Institutes at SNU (CARISNU).

2. Through which channel can I obtain data related to Asia?

SNUAC has been professionally accumulating data in Asian studies with the transfer of Korea Social Science Data Archive (KOSSDA) into the institute in 2015. KOSSDA provides research resources produced by research institutes and individual researchers such as research data, statistical data, interview and speech data, recorded documents, observation records and others. Also, Asia Regional Information Center (ARIC) provides databases of international organizations such as World Bank, IMF and UN and integrated data related to COVID-19, as well as providing regional information in local time through country reports composed by public workers of underdeveloped countries.

3. Which programs of SNUAC can undergraduate students participate in?

The Human Resources Development Department operates research internship for undergraduate and graduate students interested in Asian studies, as a part of its training program for fostering future Asian experts. The internship is operated in six-month terms and provides opportunities for students to experience research and field work related to their research interests.

4. Which programs of SNUAC can graduate (master's and doctoral) students participate in?

SNUAC operates various grant programs for graduate students working with topics related to Asia. Our major programs are the dissertation writing fellowship, which supports doctoral students in Korea in the last stage of writing their dissertations for one year, and the master's thesis and doctoral dissertation award that provides prize money and publication support for recent outstanding dissertations. Graduate students at SNU can apply for the field research grant that supports on-site research for dissertations related to Asia. Also, graduate students may participate in the research internship program designed for training.

5. How can I participate in the academic events of SNUAC?

SNUAC is holding various seminars, colloquiums and special lectures under the methodological framework of 'Asian studies combining regional and thematic research'. SNUAC's academic events are generally open to all, including researchers, students and the general public who wish to participate (except for special cases with explicit limitations). Information regarding upcoming academic events can be found via SNUAC's diverse public relations channels (homepage/Facebook/Twitter/YouTube/weekly newsletter <SNUAC WEEKLY>). After the events, information such as photos, reviews and videos of the respective events is available on SNUAC homepage.
