

Title: Marriage Disputes and Legal Judgments in Early and Medieval China

Abstract: This talk discusses marriage disputes recorded in transmitted texts and excavated materials from the Qin through the Tang and the relevant legal codes and statutes that govern such disputes. In the discussion, the rights and liabilities of concerned parties, especially women, across a long span of time will be studied and the legalization of Confucian ethics on divorce will be explored.