The murals found in the downtown areas of Kuala Lumpur, Penang, and Malacca, Malaysia’s major cities, vividly depict the diverse cultures and traditions of various ethnic groups that constitute Malaysia. Especially prevalent are murals that harmonize with the old modern landscapes of the traditional houses and shops of the ethnic Chinese Malaysians, fitting well into the densely packed urban context of their surroundings.

Taesik Kim received his Ph.D. in Communication Studies from the University of Oklahoma. He has worked as an assistant professor at Masaryk University in the Czech Republic and now serves as a professor of Media Communication at Monash University in Malaysia. He analyzes urban spaces and media texts that contain multilayered messages of socio-cultural significance conveyed through visual images, languages, and discourse. Recently, he has been dedicated to establishing the Korea-East Asia Research Cluster at Monash University to serve as a focal point for research related to Korea. Presently, he conducts research on the diversifying ‘Korean-ness’ in Southeast Asian urban spaces alongside studying the socio-cultural phenomena created by Koreans across Southeast Asia, concurrent with the proliferation of Korean media culture.

Message from the Director

The Fruition of 2023 and New Resolutions
“We are strengthening the capabilities for regional studies through systemized globalization, industry-government-academia cooperation, and transdisciplinary collaboration”

We have published the annual report of the past year, thanks to the hard work and the joys and sorrows of the members of SNUAC. The 2023 annual report is a product of the efforts and anguish of not only the researchers leading the seven regional research centers and nine thematic programs but also all the staff of the research and development department, international relations department, human resources development department, and the administrative office. Though we still have some shortcomings for SNUAC to establish itself as a global institute for regional studies, steps have been taken further for change and development with the accomplishments of the year 2023.

Through this report, we sought to deliver the efforts given by SNUAC in the past year to re-establish its identity and developmental direction as a hub for regional studies. While securing not only the quantitative production but also the qualitative excellence of research outcomes, we also sought to show the vestige of our collective speculations on what kind of regional studies the institute should pursue. We wished to take heed of the sincere advice from both inside and outside the institute that we were missing the wisdom of selection and concentration in the process of increasing the human and material assets of SNUAC. This annual report is meaningful as it is the first step taken in awareness of such an issue.

SNUAC is making an effort to enhance its capability of regional studies by systemizing globalization, industry-government-academia cooperation, and transdisciplinary collaboration that have been somewhat insufficient. Though it would be proper to respect the interests of individual researchers, it is the sheer reality of limited resources that not all topics can be explored. Therefore, we are encouraging and supporting regional researchers of the institute to first collect information from various regions of Asia and then produce high-quality research outcomes based on the information.

The discipline of regional studies was born with the fate of globalization, due to its research scope of nations and regions and its unique methodological characteristics. To study another region, one must cooperate with researchers from other countries; one also has the vocation to ameliorate the oppositions of races, ethnicities, generations, and genders and seek coexistence by sharing the research outcomes with related industries and the government. This annual report is the fruit of a year’s worth of efforts given by all to fulfill such a role of a regional research institute.

Based on this past year’s annual report, SNUAC plans to reflect on past deficiencies and establish the developmental directions for the upcoming decade. Each research and administrative unit is working on a developmental plan, and several committees are being run for the identity of the institute as well as its annual action plans. We hope to display the results of these efforts through next year’s annual report.

Lastly, I wish to send my gratitude to all members of the institute in preparing the 2023 SNUAC annual report. I especially would like to thank the PR committee for gathering and editing the materials of all departments and everyone at the administrative office for their support. We ask for your continued interest and warm support for SNUAC.

SNUAC has operated as a hub of Asian studies through creative and transdisciplinary research, combining regional and thematic perspectives. It has contributed to the realization of a knowledge community that systematically constructs and shares information, pioneering the future. In 2023, over 50 faculty and staff members of SNUAC achieved a total of 264 research accomplishments, including 22 monographs, 14 SCI papers, and 102 KCI papers. Additionally, they participated in a total of 218 academic activities, including 19 international and 16 domestic conferences. SNUAC will continue to respond to the various threats of the rapidly changing world with leading research, expand its research capacities by forging networks with Asian experts at home and abroad, and achieve qualitative development through selective concentration based on the quantitative growth heretofore.
The Launch of a New Governing Committee and the Challenges of SNUAC in 2023

After its establishment in 2009, SNUAC has grown both qualitatively and quantitatively with the leadership of three previous directors, the committed work of SNUAC staff members, and support from many researchers on and off CAMSpus. On September 1st, 2023, Prof. Suhong Chae of the Department of Anthropology took office as the fourth director of SNUAC, organizing a new governing committee and preparing for a new challenge. SNUAC is a large-scale research institute with six floors of independent research space and over 100 researchers, and now is required to show immaculate changes and innovations to refresh itself as an international research hub for Asian regional studies. Following the lead of the new governing committee, members of SNUAC are pursuing bold changes and challenges in academic research, international exchanges, human resources development, and the proliferation of research outcomes. All staff members have prepared medium- to long-term development plans according to the visions and aims of SNUAC, and a democratic procedure is underway with the understanding and cooperation of all members. Upon this procedure, SNUAC is selecting the current issues and future-oriented agenda of the Asian region, and proceeding with the challenge of making choices and focusing to support them one step at a time. For instance, the regional research centers and thematic research programs at SNUAC will undertake meticulous specialization and cooperation to take on the following medium- to long-term challenges: conduct signature projects of the center; operate as a think tank that offers appropriate policy briefs for major current issues; construct a hub of researcher networks for enhancing global cooperation; and construct and share SNUAC’s unique knowledge information and video sources of educational contents. In 2023, the new governing committee and all members of SNUAC have ventured out on these challenges for the near future.

HK+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group Enters Phase 2 with Recognition as ‘Research Group with Outstanding Accomplishments’

SNUAC Mega-Asia Research Project Group received funding from the ‘Humanities Korea (HK) Plus’ program, supported by the National Research Foundation, in 2020 and successfully constructed the basis for seeking a new paradigm of ‘Mega-Asia Studies’ during phase 1 (2020-2023). The group entered phase 2 of the research project in May 2023 and is continuing experiments for Asian regional studies. ‘Mega-Asia’ is a new concept, method, and philosophy of imagination for understanding the networked world. During the three years of the first phase, the group strove to define the new concepts around ‘Mega-Asia’, develop a transdisciplinary methodology that sets Asia as a whole as a single unit of analysis, and construct vast regional information by combining humanities, social science, and data science. As a result, the HK+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group published around 20 books in research and culture series, presented over 40 academic articles, and hosted over 25 domestic and international academic conferences to share and disseminate research accomplishments. Further, the group has been making much effort for social contribution by cooperating with various institutions including the National Museum of Korea to develop public educational programs for humanities. As a result of lively research and communication with civil society, the group was selected as a group that has produced outstanding accomplishments in 2023.

HK+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group will continue its activities in the four years of phase 2 (2023-2028) to develop ‘Mega-Asia’ as a concept that not only has consistency in the analytical aspect but also is equipped with influence in ideological and normative aspects so that it can lead Asian regionalism in the future. It is the group’s ultimate aim to prepare the basis of a joint response to the various current issues of Asia, create a welcoming atmosphere for exchanges and movements within Asia, and contribute to exchanges and cooperation between Korea and the rest of Asia, all through the concept of ‘Mega-Asia’.
Center for Eurasian and Central Asian Studies Secures a Grant from the National Research Foundation's Institute Programs in the Humanities & Social Sciences

SNUAC Center for Eurasian and Central Asian Studies (CECAS) was selected as part of the 2023 Institute Programs in the Humanities & Social Sciences supported by the National Research Foundation, with the research topic “Eurasian Refugees as Cross-Border Migrants: the Multifaceted Changes and Impacts of Migration Dynamics”. To successfully conduct the research project, CECAS established Migration-Refugees-Diaspora (MRD) Research Center on September 1st, 2023. The research project group consists of Beomshik Shin (Director of CECAS, Prof., Dept. of Political Science & Int’l Relations), four research fellows (Vadim Slepchenko, Sang-Hee Park, A Young Choi, Yuihyun Hwang), three co-researchers (Ji Won Park (KOTRA), Song Ha Joo (Kookmin Univ.), Minwoo Yun (Gachon Univ.)), and three graduate students as research assistants (Changha Kim, Minki Chung, Myunghye Cho).

The research is to be conducted over a total of six years, with three years each in phases 1 and 2. The phase 1 research on “The Manifold of Refugee Mobility” will examine the multifaceted and multilayered phenomenon of Eurasian refugees and migrants’ movement. The first year’s research will be on “The Mobility and Multidimensionality of Ukrainian War Refugees: Expansion, Return, Retrogression”, the second year’s research on “The Civil Wars and Refugees’ Mobility in Central and West Asia: Resettlement and the Formation of New Routes”, and the third year’s on “The Phenomenon of Non-political Mobility: Environmental Disasters and Climate Refugees”. In phase 2, the research will be on Korean society’s models for refugee reception and settlement and future responses; in specific, the refugees will be divided into those welcomed and those excluded in Korean society and then examined to build the basis for establishing a Korean model for refugee reception and settlement.

The Resumption of Active Overseas Academic Exchanges

With the official closure of the COVID-19 emergency declared by WHO in May 2023, SNUAC resumed its academic exchanges with diverse institutes from all over the world to strengthen its academic network and proceed with research and educational projects. As part of international exchange, SNUAC pursued meetings with various institutes overseas. While strengthening international relations through conversations with national representatives such as the ambassadors of South Africa and Rwanda, SNUAC also sought opportunities for cooperation in research and education through cooperating with academic institutes such as the Department of Sociology at Taiwan’s National Chengchi University and the Far Eastern University of the Philippines. Meanwhile, experts and delegates from diverse institutes continued to visit SNUAC, including the directors of institutes for strategic studies from four Central Asian countries, the president of VNU-HCM University of Social Sciences and Humanities, Seoul-Baku Azerbaijan-Korean Cultural Exchange Association, the vice president of Monash University, Malaysia, the vice president of education from Heidelberg University, Germany, and the president of University College London, UK. The visitors all carried out in-depth discussions on their research and curricula with SNUAC. These exchanges contributed to SNUAC’s expansion of academic network and enlargement of international cooperation. All these international exchanges and cooperation secure the position of ‘hub of Asian regional studies’ pursued by SNUAC, and greatly contributed to its place of importance in the international academic community.
HK*+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group

The HK*+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group at SNUAC was established in 2020 upon receiving funding as part of the ‘Humanities Korea Plus (HK*)’ program supported by the National Research Foundation of South Korea. With a research agenda entitled “Mega-Asia and Asias: Identities, Dynamics, Data-Telling”, the research project group, which entered the second phase in 2023, aims to develop a new regional studies paradigm, adopting a multi-disciplinary and convergent approach. The project will enable SNUAC to establish itself as one of the global top 3 institutes of Asian Studies by fostering Asian regional experts during its 7 year duration.

* Entered phase 2 of the research project (2023-2027) and expanded the utility of the ‘Mega-Asia’ concept so that it functions beyond a theoretical and methodological approach in research and acts as an applicable and productive framework in the studies and practice of Asian regionalism
* Recognized by the Republic of Korea’s Ministry of Education as one of the 50 government-funded research groups to have produced outstanding research in 2023
* Published Asia’s Heritage Trend: Examining Asia’s Present Through its Past (J. L Kim & M. Zoh eds., Routledge, 2023) as one of the volumes of the “Mega-Asia Research Series”
* Restructuring Asia and Asian Identity in the Post-Cold War Era (S.H. Chae & G. Y. Koo, Zininzin, 2023) of the “Mega-Asia Research Series” selected for the ‘Academic Book Category’ of the “2023 Sejong Books” list sponsored by the Korea Publishing and Culture Promotion Agency and supported by the Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism
* Organized fifteen workshops and invited talks for the intensification of agenda research
* Hosted three international and four domestic conferences for the dissemination of agenda research

The AsIA Humanities Dissemination Center was established in May 2020 to disseminate the research outcomes of the HK+ Mega-Asia Research Group, which seeks to approach Asia from a new perspective combining the humanities and social sciences, to the public at home and abroad. As a platform fostering global regional experts and publicizing Asian regional knowledge and information on humanities internationally, the center operates various educational programs. The center aims to provide education that is open to all, regardless of age and region, and pursues the expansion of accessibility and diversification of programs through MOUs and cooperation with related institutions. Also, the center uploads videos of all programs to its YouTube channel, in order to play the role in the sharing of knowledge, information and social communication.

* Produced and uploaded 28 lecture videos including 2023 Mega-Asia Open University
* Co-hosted online and offline educational programs with the National Museum of Korea, Extension College SNU, SNUAC Dept. of Human Resources Development, and SNUAC West Asia Center
* Hosted ‘Dungsil Dungsil AsIA Cultural Festival: Malaysia Video Festival’ as the Humanities Week event in Nov. 2023
* Renewed the AsIA Humanities Dissemination Center website to enhance accessibility to lecture videos
* Uploaded videos of lectures in 2023 to the YouTube channel (277,076 views; 4,730 subscribers)

The Northeast Asia Center (NEAC) was established to analyze and understand the various issues around political, economic, social, and cultural changes in the Northeast Asian region that is undergoing upheavals following globalization. Through diverse types of academic and cooperative activities, NEAC seeks to make multifaceted and in-depth approaches to issues that cannot be solved on a single national scale such as the division of Korean peninsula and the South-North relations, Korea’s relations with China and Japan, territoriality and center/ peripheries of each Northeast Asian country, conflicts around Northeast Asian history, post-Cold War transition, transnational issues and regional conflicts. Further, NEAC pursues transdisciplinary research through communing and cooperating with Asia-related research institutes in SNU and seeks to contribute to the activation of Northeast Asian regional studies as a hub of communication and exchanges with various institutes on and off CAMSpus.

Since its establishment in April 2014, the Center for Eurasian and Central Asian Studies (CECAS) has continued to conduct research integrating regional and thematic studies. CECAS provides information on current affairs in Central Asia and Eurasian region and fosters experts in the region by actively presenting research outcomes in diverse academic disciplines.

CECAS also aims to promote public interests in Central Asia, and has forged research network for ongoing cooperation with domestic and foreign universities and research institutions. Based on various efforts and activities including academic events and publications, CECAS seeks to derive practical implications on policy and establish itself as a hub of Central Asian studies.

* Held a series of four workshops on migration dynamics and two workshops on regional research
* Held two integrated conferences (Central Asian Koryoin literature, North Asian regional studies)
* Organized three expert colloquiums on the topic of refugees, two internal seminars, and two refugee education programs
* Wrote a total of five academic papers and book chapters of three academic books
* Began research project “Eurasian Refugees as Cross-Border Migrants: the Multifaceted Changes and Impacts of Migration Dynamics” in September 2023 supported by NRF
* Met with the directors of strategic research institutes in four Central Asian countries and discussed academic collaborations with a particular focus on energy and environment-related fields
* Conducted an academic next-generation colloquium on the protection of maritime refugees

The Center for South Asian Studies (CSAS) was established to pursue multidimensional and reciprocal cooperative projects with the seven countries in the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) such as India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and Nepal, and to study their history, economy, politics, languages and cultures with the aim of systematically building related capacities.

After establishing diplomatic relations with South Asian countries in the 1970s, Korea has recently reinforced cooperation in the context of New Southern Policy and joined SAARC as an observer state in 2007. CSAS seeks to perform the role of an academic link that connects diverse agents who contribute to the creation and accumulation of information related to South Asia. For this aim, the center is pursuing projects that expand the range of joint research and work with various institutes, researchers, and agents of South Asian countries.

* Organized seven colloquiums on the Indian Economy, Islam and Secularism in India, and Indus civilization research
* Organized four workshops on current socioeconomic issues in South Asia and research on Indian literature
* Published two volumes on digital production community (FabLab) and the digital workshop in Bhutan
* Conducted Korea Exchange Program between SNUAC and IIMB University in India (KIP: Korean Immersion Program)

The Asia-Africa Center was established in March 2022 for pursuing transdisciplinary research that can mutually complement the universality and specificity of studies on Africa and for performing a role as an exclusive research institute for African studies that equally understands both Korean and African perspectives beyond the existing West-oriented view on Africa. Functioning as a strategic think tank that can provide practical policy suggestions that meet the needs of the times, the center ultimately aims to make a leap as a global research hub of African studies that connects Asia and Africa and leads to mutual understanding between the two continents.

* Identified essential Africa research topics: Global South, The Two Koreas and Africa Relations, etc.
* Established African Expert DB: A platform for the collaboration of regional and interdisciplinary researchers
* Created a network of emerging Africa scholars: held three SNU Africa Studies meetings for academic workshops
* Planned and organized Africa Seminars: SNU Africa Seminar (15 times), SNU Africa Special Lecture (5 times), SNU Extension College public lectures (3 times), SNU Asia-Africa Forum (1 time), etc.
* Participated in the KOICA ODA Young Professional (YP) Program
* Established cooperation and partnerships with major international institutes related to Africa: Univ. of Nairobi, Univ. of Pretoria, the South African Inst. of Int’l Affairs (SAIIA)

The Vietnam Center (VC) serves as a central institution for Seoul National University's education and research on Vietnam. The center accumulates qualitative and quantitative regional information related to Vietnam and services to be used by researchers. The center plans and conducts transdisciplinary research over various disciplines such as anthropology, political science, economics, and public administration. The center is actively participating in Vietnam-related national and private research and exchange projects and accumulating research and information on Vietnam. The Center is contributing to common prosperity of Vietnam and Korea by transferring the strategies of occupational training, higher education, and academic research to local institutions in Vietnam. The Center is also strengthening Vietnam-related networks by serving as an acting secretariat of the Vietnam Forum of Seoul National University.

* Developed academic cooperation with local institutions in Vietnam: conducted joint seminar "The Political Economy of Vietnam's Economic Development: Focusing on the State Sector Reform" with VNU-USSH Hanoi; joint seminar "Local Governance in Vietnam and Korea: Comparative Perspective" with Thai Binh Univ, VNU-UEB and VNU-USSH Hanoi

* Developed an business-academia-research cooperative network with Vietnam Forum at SNU, the Vietnam Subcommittee of Korea Association of Southeast Asian Studies and the Vietnamese Student Association at SNU

* Built the original dataset: Vietnam Elite Dataset (biographical data of the Party Central Committee members from 1986 to 2021)

* Prepared for Local Public Lectures (Advanced Management Program) in Hanoi: 3Q of 2024

The Asia Regional Information Center (ARIC) aims to establish comprehensive database based on statistical analysis of qualitative/quantitative data of individual countries & regions in Asia, in response to the social needs of present national and regional information. Our ultimate goal is to contribute to developing cultural intelligence competence by creating an integrated information platform for sharing various information and data, attributed by ARIC’s versions of country reports and data modules.

* Held methodology lectures for fostering capabilities for analyzing data based on open API and data analytics
* Published ‘2023 ASEAN & Korea in figures’ in collaboration with the ASEAN-Korea Centre
* Updated Factsheets and provided Fast Facts on homepage: Factsheets from 11 countries and Immigration Factsheets from 48 countries have been updated and new Fast Facts about ASEAN countries are available based on the ‘2023 ASEAN & Korea in figures’
* Updated and provided multiple metadata sets
* Published 3 KCI journal articles, 1 general article (not KCI-accredited) and 1 monograph (Managing the COVID-19 Pandemic in South Korea: Policy Learning Perspectives) and contributed as expert columnist

The Center for Asian Urban Societies (CAUS) aims to suggest post-developmental city paradigm and the urban transition strategy, which help Asian cities overcome the limitations of developmental urbanization and establish a human-centered urban community. It also wants to contribute citizens to make alternative daily lives by making and flourishing commons-oriented urban platforms as social-cultural-spatial infrastructures. The Center strives to disseminate its research results to society through active policy proposals. Further, it establishes research-based urban solidarity through domestic and overseas research and activity networks.

* Conducted third year research for the NRF Institute Programs in the Humanities & Social Sciences (2021.9.1.~2027.8.31.): A Study on Urban Transitional Strategy for Sharing City to Overcome Speculative Urbanization
* Continued to work with ‘Network for Sharing Urban Policy & Knowledge’, an urban policy-information network consisting of diverse parties (researchers, activists, policy makers, etc.) based on new discourses and practical strategies for urban transition
* Held four international conferences with UNESCO, KLRI, AURI, KyungHee Univ. Jeju Nat’l Univ., etc.
* Held on/offline academic events (5 conferences, 9 colloquiums, 2 workshops, 4 seminars)
* Conducted field research (field survey, in-depth interview of 40 people), held an exhibition for sharing city, and published 6 webzines

The Center for Asian Migration Studies concentrates on basic research for exploring, understanding, and explaining the status, characteristics, and prospects of migration and immigration over countries, regions, and continents. At the same time, the center seeks to establish itself as a hub of Asian migration studies through a network of related agents at home and abroad such as the government, academia, and civil society, in the rapid transitional process toward a multicultural society with low birthrate. To this end, the center will construct a database for Asian migration studies and create a network of migration experts within and outside the country. Through discussions and explorations of migration policy and issues with experts in Korea and other countries, the center will proliferate research outcomes through academic exchanges including conferences.

* Focused on basic research, exploring the current status, characteristics, and prospects of Asian migration and immigration
* Regularly held colloquiums and special lecture series on Asian migration studies
* Constructed an international academic network through international conference
* Invited experts at SNU and migration research institutes as advisors for joint research, data sharing, and academic exchange
* Shared and received feedback on research outcomes through conference presentations and journal publications

Hallyu, referring to the significant overseas popularity of Korean popular culture, has been rapidly developing into a global cultural phenomenon beyond Asia and greatly changing Korea’s realistic and imaginary relations in the world. At a point when Korea has to reinstate a national image that befits its status as an advanced country, the importance of Hallyu as a soft power becomes much larger. The Center for Hallyu Studies seeks to be the hub of Hallyu Studies by activating networks at home and abroad and re-establishing the meaning of studying Hallyu. To do this, the center will theorize Hallyu studies, which has been sporadically conducted in several areas, formulate important issues, and pursue transdisciplinary research and formation of a global network of researchers. The center will construct a foundation for Hallyu Studies through integrated research, disseminate research outcomes through publications and academic events, and conduct various projects that can contribute to society.

* Held an international academic conference “Globalizing South Korean Creativity: Theorizing, Exhibiting, and Archiving Hallyu, the Korean Wave”
* Held “CHS 100min. Talk” eight times, inviting published authors of significant studies on Hallyu and Korean popular culture for presentation and discussion
* Held two roundtable talks “How Will SM Entertainment’s Management Dispute be Viewed?” and “K-Pop Inside from the Perspective of Producers”
* Held a seminar series on the history of Korean popular culture “A Historical Exploration of Hybridity in Korean Popular Music”
* Conducted academic translation project: “Korean Popular Culture Series” (supported by the AKS)
* Conducted research project: “Cultural and Industrial Characteristics of Hallyu Creative Industry: Towards a Co-evolutionary Model of Production and Consumption” (supported by the NRF)

Asian Developmental Model Program (ADMP) aims to analyze the specificity and diversity of the Asian capitalist system theoretically and empirically and to classify sustainable Asian developmental models based on the analysis. To do so, the program discusses the common institution and culture of Asian capitalism and classifies the diversity of Asian capitalism by comparatively analyzing various industries in terms of corporate governance, intercorporate relations, labor, finances, welfare and global value chains. The program seeks to suggest a sustainable Asian developmental model by setting the regional commonality of Asian capitalism and a synthesized framework that includes the diversity of countries within the region.

* Traced, compared, and analyzed the change and innovation the East Asia development countries had after COVID pandemic crisis in the perspective of industrial policy
* Discussed the research on the Asia developmental model, analyzing the original form, modified form, and sustainability of the East Asian model
* Discussed diversity of route for economic catching-up by latecomers
* Discussed the industry policy of ‘Global South’ and ‘New Industrial Policy’ in the era of U.S.-China hegemony competition
* Conducted comparative research on the diverse patterns of the East Asian development countries, with the theoretical and empirical research on the geopolitical risk and return of industrial policy
* Investigated economic security and semi-conductor industrial policy, through field investigation in Taiwan, academic workshop with Academia Sinica and interview with ITRI, NCHU, KOTRA, Taiwan lawmaker conceded with the policy

Exchange and Cooperation in the Asian World Program (ECAWP)

The Exchange and Cooperation in the Asian World Program aims to identify the various exchange networks that existed in the 'Asian World' and to trace their diachronic developments. Due to the vastness of the study area and the diversity of the research topics involved, this program seeks to establish a new research framework for 'Asian Regional Studies' through an interdisciplinary and convergent approach. Empirical research on past networks can demonstrate how ‘mobility’ and ‘connectivity’ have contributed to the formation and reproduction of the Asian World, and also provides insights on exchange and cooperation in the contemporary Asian World.

Research goals for 2022-2024 include the construction of an 'Archaeological and Historical Evidence for Exchange in the Asian World Database' for empirical research of various exchange networks that created the Asian World. The program will also carry out in-depth research on how people, things, and ideas have moved across borders.

* Organized the ‘Korean Ancient Tombs and Eurasia Book Talk Series’ to disseminate research results on the topic of ‘the movement of people, things, and ideas’
* Organized the ‘International Researcher Invited Lecture Series’ to discuss recent research developments on the topic of ‘exchange’
* Co-hosted conferences with the Korea Transport Institute and the Gochang Dolmen Museum
* Established international research networks through fieldwork in the Tango Peninsula, Japan and Oc Eo, Vietnam
* Received funding from the NRF for international mobility project (1 year)

SNUAC Research Grants for Asian Studies

2023 SNUAC Research Grants

Myungmoo Lee (SNUAC) et al. | 2023 Asia Brief
This project publishes weekly webzines with in-depth analyses of current issues in the Asian region based on the expertise in regional and thematic research of SNUAC. The webzine selects pertinent subtopics with high relevance in areas such as politics, diplomacy and security, economy, and culture, and through expert analysis, provides insights and political implications for the Korean government and its citizens.

Yuihyun Hwang (SNUAC) et al. | 2023 Diverse+Asia
This project publishes a quarterly webzine featuring articles from experts in six regions, including five Asian regions and Africa, focusing on one selected topic. Through this platform, a wide range of comparisons and analyses are conducted, highlighting the interconnectedness and organic nature between Asia and Africa, as well as shedding light on the universality and specificity of common issues faced by the regions.

Eunyoung Nam (SNUAC) | Planning of 2023 Asia Review Commissioned/Special Papers
Asia Review is a KCI journal triannually published by SNUAC. Other than general submitted articles, diverse and timely topics are commissioned to be featured as special papers. Through this initiative, Asia Review aims to produce world-leading knowledge in Asian studies and drive new changes and developments in the field, thus taking a leading role in advancing research in Asia.

Chee Hae Chung (The Korea Inst. of Public Affairs) | Ethics in the Age of AI: Unraveling Key Issues and Policy Approaches in the Asian Context
This study conducts a comparative analysis of current AI ethics guidelines in Western countries such as the United States and Europe, and in Asian technological frontrunners like the Republic of Korea and Japan, to highlight their limitations. It aims to address Western-centric bias in global AI ethics guideline development and suggests more inclusive and balanced policies that consider the diverse needs and perspectives of Asian contexts.

Jitae Kim (Environmental Planning Inst.) et al. | Natural Disasters and Labor Market: The Impact of Typhoons on the Philippine Labor Market
This project analyzes the impact of typhoons on the labor market in the Philippines, a country vulnerable to climate change and frequent typhoon damage. Using the event study approach and the difference-in-differences method (DID), it identifies changes in wages and employment in the region, which suffered significant damage from Typhoon Haiyan in 2013. Based on this analysis, it proposes policies for adaptation, response, and mitigation of damage for climate-vulnerable countries.

Ho Beom Kwon (Dept. of Prosthodontics) et al. | Establishment of an Educational-Research Community in the Dentistry at Seoul National University and Universities in Southeast Asia, and Comparative Analysis of Dental Education Assessment
This project aims to establish collaborative networks among representative dental schools in Southeast Asian countries such as Laos, Vietnam, and Thailand, and present standardized clinical education materials and education evaluation models to compare the evaluation results. Through this effort, it seeks to improve the healthcare situation in partner countries, strengthen dental education capabilities, and promote qualitative improvements in development cooperation tailored to the needs of recipient countries.

Jiin Kim (Inst. for Innovation and Coexistence Education Research) | A study on agency of Filipino migrant nurses: Focusing on learning life history
This project aims to understand the evolving process of how Filipino international migrant nurses perceive international migration throughout their lives, and explain their motivations and actions from a learning perspective. It seeks to move away from the trend of perceiving countless international migrant Filipino nurses solely as structural victims, and instead examine how they actively engage as agents of globalization and reinterpret meanings.
MinGyo Koo (Grad. School of Public Administration) et al. | Naval Arms Race in East Asia and the Politics of Aircraft Carrier Procurement in South Korea

This project examines the escalating maritime power competition between the United States and China and the resulting aircraft carrier competition among East Asian countries, and analyzes South Korea's policy process for introducing light aircraft carriers, which have faced setbacks, using government politics models and budget politics models. Through this analysis, it explores how relationships and conflicts among various stakeholders unfold around the pretext of the nation's "core interests."

This research reflects on the process through which the Anthropocenic complex catastrophes of the Hiroshima atomic bombing and the Fukushima nuclear disaster become legacies of memory, attempting a relational ontological approach to disasters and legacies. Through case studies, it explores methods for preserving the legacies of heritage destroyed by disasters and for memorializing the disasters themselves, and investigates whether they can mediate alternative imaginations for the future.

Jin Baek (Dept. of Architecture & Architectural Engineering) et al. | The Ethics of the Communal and the Planning of Shared Spaces: Architectural Characteristics of Public Rental Housing in East Asia (Korea, China, Japan)

Based on a socio-ethical approach, this project proposes new directions for the construction of public rental housing to overcome the collapse of family and community caused by rapid urbanization. To this end, it selects successful cases from Korea, China, and Japan, demonstrating how spatial sharing fosters the revitalization of local communities and improves residential environments within the context of East Asia.

Hyun-Chin Lim (SNUAC) et al. | A League of Their Own: Female Universalism among Hallyu Fans

This research rediscovers the fact that the vast majority of global Hallyu fans are women and analyzes the global Hallyu fandom from a new perspective of female universalism. It examines the development process of female universalism and specific manifestations within the global Hallyu fandom, and provides new ways of understanding Hallyu and relevant policy implications.

Bong Joo Lee (Dept. of Social Welfare) et al. | Intellectual History of 50 Years of Social Sciences

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the College of Social Sciences at Seoul National University in 2025, this project examines the accumulation of knowledge and the intellectual-historical evolution and development process in various fields of social science. It thus reflects on the trajectory of interaction and development between the field of social sciences and Korean society, and explores the future direction of the development of social sciences in Korea.

Joonhwa Cho (SNUAC) et al. | Basic Research Archiving of Africa’s Foreign Policy towards Asia (Korea, China, Japan)

This research investigates and archives basic data on the diplomatic policies of major African countries towards South Korea, China, and Japan. By investigating the decision-making structures and characteristics of diplomatic policies in each African country, as well as the differences in development cooperation agendas desired by major African countries towards South Korea, China, and Japan, and the negotiation processes of these agendas, it aims to establish a comprehensive foundation for in-depth domestic research on Africa.

Yong Kyun Kim (Dept. of Political Science & Int’l Relations) et al. | Preparation for Vietnam Advanced Management Program

In line with the significant increase in Korean companies entering Vietnam, this project establishes advanced courses in Vietnam and provides re-education for Korean and Vietnamese managerial staff. Through this initiative, it aims to help managers gain a comprehensive and multifaceted understanding of Vietnam, a country connected to the global market, and enhance the management efficiency of local companies entering Vietnam while promoting friendly relations between Korea and Vietnam.

Baek Yung Kim (Dept. of Sociology) et al. | A Critical Analysis of the Belt and Road Initiative: a Connectivity Perspective

In commemoration of the 10th anniversary of One Belt One Road initiative, this research critically examines the past and present of the initiative from the perspective of “connectivity in Asia” considering its unfolding process, reactions from various countries, and diverse impacts. To achieve this, it organizes academic conferences, publishes special issue papers, and contributes to the evolution and development of Asian discourse.
